Lead Consultant & CEO, FutureLeaders™

President, BOLD (Bangladesh Organization for Learning & Development)

Educated and trained in Bangladesh, USA, Japan and Norway, Mr. Quazi takes pride in his excellent track record in training, consulting and teaching in the areas of Leadership and Human Capital Development for the last 20 years. In his early career he taught at the School of Business, North South University and since 2005 has been running FutureLeaders at its Lead Consultant and CEO.

In recent years, he has conducted learning and development events for organizations and agencies such as Robi, Samsung, UCBL, City Bank, A2I Project at Prime Minister's Office, Epic Group, DHL, Grameenphone, NEC, Shanta Group, ILO, UNDP, Ericsson, Standard Chartered Bank, FBCCI, MCCI, DCCI, Katalyst, Save the Children, Oxfam, KAFCO and many other esteemed organizations. Because of his unique training style and facilitation approaches, he is considered as one of the best trainers in Bangladesh today.

Quazi's proven success in helping companies to grow, identifying opportunities and transforming various organizations has put him in a category of his own. He is a leading contributor to the field of human potential in Bangladesh and facilitator of personal and organizational change.

On the international scene, Quazi completed several assignments and presentations such as the following: Keynote speaker at the Business and IT Festival at Universiti Malaysia Sabah (April 18-19, 2015), IBSS, Denmark (October 2011), State University of New York (Sept.'10), CSET, Inc., California, USA (Sept.'10), Asia eUniversity (July'10), Universiti Malaysia Sabah, Labuan (July '10), Innovative Int'l College, KL, Malaysia (2009); Skoll Forum, Oxford University, UK (March 2006), ILO Headquarters, Geneva (Dec. 2004).

Quazi served as Secretary General of the Nordic Chamber of Commerce and Industry (NCCIB) between November 2010 to March 2012 and he was elected as the President of Bangladesh's Dhaka East Chapter of JCI International in 2001. For his work as a social entrepreneur in youth leadership development, he has been elected an Ashoka Affiliate by the US-based nonprofit Ashoka back in 2004. Currently he is the President of BOLD—Bangladesh organization for Learning & Development for the years 2015-2016.
